I object to the plans on velmore farm for a number of reasons

The traffic for one - templars way is extremely busy anyway, accidents inc the air ambulance having to be called.

If there are accidents on the motorway templars and school lane are the sat nav diversion increasing traffic and the possibility of more accidents.

Flooding on school lane is constant - the roads are always being dug up or pumped because the roads can't cope.

To think putting over 1000 new houses is a good idea is absolutely absurd, where are the children going to school ? Which drs surgery's are going to be taking on new and more patients not to mention the local hospitals which can not cope with increased demand of these services.

Increase of pollution in an already damaged beyond repair world - we should be saving as much green and nature as possible not getting rid of it.
